Home inspections figure out the condition of a house before buying it. A snapshot in time.

Houses behave in unexpected ways that become known only after living in them a while. They show in utility bills. Friends and family comment on their comfort. Things happen as seasons and weather change.

Home InSight collects data for an On-Line Home Energy Survey to help you understand the performance of your house—even before moving in! Then, when the house does strange things, you have a clue!

Homebuyers want healthy, long-lasting, comfortable, and energy-efficient houses. After you own it, Home InSight does diagnostic performance testing to help find qualified contractors to deal with the quirks so you can have the house you really want—the one you're considering today!
